SUMMARY: Executive Branch Departments and Sub-units must obtain appropriate licenses. The DNR Hazardous Waste Permits Unit can provide technical and regulatory service assistance to owners and operators of existing hazardous waste treatment, storage and disposal (TSD) facilities that need operating licenses.

APPLICABLE FORMS: Application for Hazardous Waste Treatment, Storage or Disposal Facility Operating License.

PROCEDURES:

Agency:

- Telephones the Hazardous Waste Permits Unit to request the application form, and to obtain technical and regulatory advice and guidance as to how the form should be prepared and submitted.
- Schedules a meeting with appropriate unit staff, to receive detailed technical and regulatory guidance as to how to proceed with your facility's application.

TSD Facility:

- Existing unlicensed treatment, storage, and disposal (TSD) facilities that have yet to be issued an operating license by the director, must be operated in compliance with Act 64 and its administrative rules, until an operating license is issued by the director or the facility is certified closed by the director.
- Existing licensed treatment, storage and disposal (TSD) facilities that have been issued an operating license by the DNR director must be operated in compliance with Act 64 and its administrative rules and stipulations, as set forth in the current license, until a revised operating license is issued by the director or the facility is certified closed by the director.
 - Must prepare and submit certain information for approval by the DNR, including:
 - Detailed engineering plans and specifications.
 - Hydrogeological report.
 - Environmental assessment.
 - Corporate disclosure statement.
 - Public notice.
 - Facility closure plan.
 - Financial assurance.
 - Waste analysis plan.
 - Inspection schedule.
